

HOW ELEONORA SEARS "STEPPED ON IT" AND HELD IT FOR 44 LONG MILES TO WIN WAGER

Cutler, Eleo and Hineckley passing the hospital grounds in West Roxbury. After her lunch at the Dedham Community Club, Eleo is getting away, Cutler is on the steps, and the Sears chauffeur in the doorway.

Passing through Norwood, Hineckley was out of the camera's range.

'ELEO' SEARS WINS HIRE WAGER

Her hire via Centre street, Jamaica way, Riverway and the Parkway to her home. Had in a battered old car, a loose house, muffler, wide skirt, with smoke and heavy bougie, the gray haired society woman led her younger about a fourth class.

Then, only a little lag weary, she started toward the Charles River bridge at Spring street, and down across the city to the river. Straight along Centre street and through West Roxbury she trudged. "I know I'd get in in plenty of time to win," she said as she neared Boston, still using the long stride she had maintained all during the walk across when she said, "I'm not a bit tired. A little lag weary, as they say of horses, but nowhere near it."

"It's been a great trip. A wonderful trip. Two enjoyed every minute of it."

All through the trip Miss Sears used the long, swinging stride she is so accustomed to.

Striding along through Walpole, Mass., as she prefers to be called, was still going along at the splendid pace she had maintained from the start. Now did she try to save her breath, keeping up a running fire of banter with both Cutler and Hineckley who admitted they had long since made their first wind, and had not been able to discover their second.

IMPROVER IN DISTANCE. "Snap into it," shouted Miss Sears as she burst into a dog trot. "No lagging behind there. You offered to pace me, not chase me. This is the only system. Walk until you get tired, and then try running for awhile."

"How far have you gone?" she asked, her arms swinging in true rhythmic accompaniment to her stride.

When the Boston Evening American reporter accompanying her on her walk told her she had already gone about 20 miles, Miss Sears laughed like a schoolgirl, and said: "Yes, I'm weary of my schedule. I'll get tired for an early breakfast. No fifteen hours for me, Mary."

"Come on," she shouted over her shoulder to her ladies, "show some 'go' on it."

"I have a heart," someone called. "I'm weary of the girls—and 'show some go' on it." "That's the spirit," she answered. "That's the spirit of the kind that goes flutter-flutter over a little pleasure just like this. But there's one thing. If I must keep up my stride, I'll keep it up. I'll keep it up."

"I'll keep it up," she said, her arms swinging in true rhythmic accompaniment to her stride.

Mellie Charged Henry Double Usual Fee

New York, Dec. 14 (U.S.)—Coming here today from Detroit, Mellie Dunham, the Maine fiddler, declared:

"I made Henry Ford pay pretty good for my playing. You see, I charge $1.00 an evening at home, but away from home I double the price, as I charged Henry $2."

Moreover, he confided to the reporters that he had pruned, pan-fried, liver and bacon, and rolls and coffee for breakfast, and that alone would have more than eaten up the $2.

Denial of license to independent bus lines within the area served by the Elevated.

In a minority report, Representative Francis X. Byrne, of Boston, recommends public ownership immediately.

Senator Charles C. Warren of Andover, while siding with the majority, disagreed with the recommendation for reduction in the guaranteed dividend.

The thirty years' extension of public control is recommended to begin July 1, 1931. The committee made six recommendations and seven suggestions, the former being considered of more importance.

The recommendations, besides the extension of the control period and the reduction in the dividend rate, are:

Appointment of trustees, at first for terms of two, four, six, eight and ten years and thereafter for two years each, as the one year members will be named every two years the board to name its own chairman every two years.

Limiting of franchise tax during the public control period by providing for a refund of any amount by which the franchise tax for any year exceeds the amount in the year 1925.

Increase of the reserve fund to $1,000,000 and requirement that the Elevated shall have made net earnings of $1,000,000 annually for two successive years before the trustees shall be compelled to reduce the basic fare.

In event the State shall exercise its option to take the road by purchase or by eminent domain, the compensation shall not be enhanced by reason of the proposed legislation or any contract made under it.

The trustees consider the advisability of reserving $5,000,000 of 7 per cent preferred stock and its replacement by a 4 per cent stock.

That the trustees consider placing along to car riders savings made in the Legislative reserve, the legislative fund, by restoring a flat five-cent local fare if it can be done without delaying the replacement of amounts still owed cities.

STATE TO BUILD EXTENSIONS. That, in event of future rapid transit extensions outside of Boston, the Legislative reserve, the legislative fund, by restoring a flat five-cent local fare if it can be done without delaying the replacement of amounts still owed cities.

Today's ceremony assumed a special significance, because it preceded by less than a month the still more impressive ceremony with which the Pope will close the Holy Year.

After the Pope had said himself on the throne, the master of ceremonies ordered the "extra omnia" and all except the Pope and Cardinals left the hall. The Pontiff then offered a simple prayer and delivered a short allocution.

CARDINALS CREATED. After this he proceeded to the creation of the new cardinals. The Pope also announced the appointment of several archbishops and bishops, most of whom had already been nominated by brief.

The papal allocution dealt chiefly with the celebration of Holy Year. The Holy Father expressed satisfaction at its success, but said that the pilgrims must have seen that the situation of the head of the Catholic church was still far from what it should be.

In fact, the pilgrims, to approach the Holy Father, were compelled to enter the Vatican, which he could not leave as long as present conditions continued.

COMMENDS MUSSOLINI. The allocution was significant in that it marked the first time since 1918 that any Pope had uttered favorable remarks concerning the Italian government or the head of the Italian Cabinet.

While Pius XI. was not ungenerous in his praise of the established regime, he formally expressed regret over the recent plot against the life of Benito Mussolini, and warned satisfaction that the attempt was frustrated.

Pope expressed regret that the new laws of an economic and social nature passed by the Italian Parliament failed to take more into account the Catholic doctrine, although its need was as much as any. Owing to its divine institution, he stated the church opposed Liberalism or socialism leading to anarchy, but it equally opposed the political conception under which the state and society were seen in themselves.

ELEO TRAINED WEEKS FOR HER TRIP

By MAXINE MORRIS

It was cold, laden down with a hint of snow in the air—and I shivered in my boots as we met the formidable "Eleo" Sears, who was hiking forty-four miles from Provincetown to Boston.

"Mind if I join the ranks?" said I, struggling to swing into the rhythmic step paced by "Eleo."

"Come ahead," invited Miss Sears, adding a challenging chuckle, "if you can keep up."

The first mile was the hardest. "Eleo," in her horn-belled shoes, blouses, wide skirt, and light weight jacket, was trim and fit, and that was the half of it.

Off came my hat, then my heavy coat---then the gloves---and "there we are. I'm going to report to you a highwayman's mission. If I must keep up and on---and on!" Eleo strode on and on---and on!

Stops of minutes from the lot in the station wagon were taken in the hike, and with snatches of song and whistles, and occasional frolicsome sprits ahead down the road, we were on our way.

I followed like a whither-wind-blown "Bump the Leader," "I've been training for this for a long time," said the "blue-ribbon" aristocrat of sports. "Plenty of sleep, warm clothes---a good clear day---and I'm going to make it before a clock. Watch man and see it I do."

She did. It was 12:05 to the minute when she said, "I'm home."

"As for mild interviewers, she declared that it was all wrong about the fact mile being the hardest. It was the last forty-four. But they were taken with the aid of gasoline."

FULLER 'PARTY' IN NORTH END CAUSES STIR

Cop's Salute Nearly Breaks Up Visit of Governor and Children to Theatre

A policeman's salute and a timely incident near a North End theatre are credited with having almost broken up an entirely unofficial theatre party at which Governor Alvan T. Fuller was the host today.

The Commonwealth's chief executive and three small children comprised the party. They quit the gubernatorial automobile nearby and walked unnoticed towards the theatre until Patrolman Leonard of the Joy street station recognized them. A smart salute caused pedestrians to stop and gaze at the gentleman escorting the youngsters to the theatre.

"What a party my car there, officer," asked the Governor, acknowledging the salute with a bow. "Certainly sir," said Leonard, "I see that it is watched and I hope you'll enjoy the show."

"It's sure we will. We were riding by when the youngsters spied a picture and I enjoy it as much as they do," said the Governor as he herded his charges to the theatre.

According to Leonard only those who saw the Governor outside of the theatre recognized him and he and his party passed two hours in the theatre without being identified.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Grand Opera Season of Two Weeks to Open Monday, January 25

BOSTON'S SHORT BUT INTENSELY brilliant Grand Opera Season opens Monday, January 25, with the charming but little known opera "Andra Chener" by Giordano (of Parisian inspiration in French, Romantic times) and ends two weeks later with that useful perennial favorite, the tried and true "Trovatore."

ONE EYES THE MASTER TOUCH of Messrs. E. Belmont, Walter and Wallace Goodrich in the opera has a compulsion to see to see production made just year there a wealth of beautiful musical events are in store for Boston a season of music devotees.

THE OPERA COMMITTEE, too, is one to compare with—including as it does the Old Guard who have put over some brilliant opera seasons for Boston, Messrs. John E. Thayer, Jr., R. H. Heston, Draper, Ralph L. Fletcher, Edwin Farnham Greene and the two just above mentioned.

RICHARD PLATT, IN FINE form as bachelorette host at his 12th street studio-residence, entertained a small and smart company of his artistic confidants recently. Supper and dance, elaborated a musical evening in George Shuff's into an extemporaneous celebration.

GUESTS OF MUSICAL WORTH and importance were Misses—Henrietta Gehard, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Fox, the Harman Kellers, Harriet Foster and Miss Little French. Neighbors from the "Hill" included Miss Pauline Danforth and Mrs. Danforth, Miss Maude Gies and George Paul, the latter a dancer to Mr. Platte's rhythms.

STILL MUSICALLY SPEAKING, Boston's artistic program suffers a very distinct loss in the cancellation of a concert series to be given this evening with Madame Homer the star, and the Tapestry of the Museum of Fine Arts for the winter.

SUCH AN ANNOUNCEMENT, coming from Mrs. J. Templeman Colledge and her associates—Mrs. Elen B. Draper, Mrs. Alvin T. Fuller, Mrs. George S. Munford and Mrs. F. S. W. Richardson, brings distinct regret.

SURROUNDED BY HUNDREDS of blossoms Mrs. Malcolm Seymour flanked by Miss Helen Seymour and Miss Hope Patterson made a highly individual and most successful presentation at the Seymour home in Commonwealth avenue for the girls' presentation tea.

WHITE SATIN, BENEATH the sheen of grape beautifully head embroidered, was Miss Patterson's selection for the tea. Mrs. William Elliot, Phyllis (Elizabeth Patterson) gubling power destined in the tea room, wore sea blue blouse mounted over shell pink.

RATHER THE PORTRAIT mode (high favorite with the badi) was followed in the designing of Mrs. Seymour's gown, a glossy white buffa, with snug bodice and round skirt. Mrs. Seymour wore black velvet and carried gardenias. Both girls had arm clusters of red roses.

MRS. PHILIP L. SALTONSTALL, society recruit to the play-world had found most successful in the venture is an honor guest tomorrow at the Copley Plaza when Professional Women play hosts in their best way to sundry local and imported celebrities.

LEON ERROL, AND WILL ROGERS, showy disciples of the stage in no lighter moments and E. E. Clive of the Copley Players, brilliant exponent of the stage's higher trend, all gather about the board. And Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Mrs. A. Lawrence Lowell and Miss Blanche Burke, noted actresses.

SPICY, FRAGRANT CHRISTMAS greens filling the George W. Villante's Commonwealth avenue drawing room will call all and sundry to purchase on Thursday and Friday of this week. Greens of unusual variety and appeal may be had.

THE FAIR AND GARDEN AS a recreation you know it is little green painted shop in lower Newbury street sponsors the sale and joins with the Society for Preservation of New England's plants, in making famous the fact of appearing here and ground plan, an aim most laudable.

EN PARENT, I HEAR that Mrs. Villante and her daughter, Constance Villante join the vast army of Bostonians gone travelling to Europe with the incoming year. It's a favorite playground of theirs, and one wherein they spend a season now and then.

OUTWARD BOUND on the steamship Dulis, the Hand Enablers, with their daughter, Miss Gertrude Peabody, are booked to sail for a travel round about the world. Mediterranean, turning homeward again in the Spring, if present plans carry through.

THE STEAMSHIP PARIS, sailing westward from French shores December 16 has on her passenger list names of local distinction. Dr. Ernest M. Hinkle of Dartmouth, William H. Wright and the Hugh D. Scotts of Roxbury.

PARIS DIVORCE FOR DOROTHY JORDAN

Hub Society Girl Charged Robinson, a Roosevelt Nephew, With Desertion

Mrs. Dorothy Jordan Robinson, Boston and New York society matron whose marriage to Monroe Douglas Robinson of New York, a nephew of the late President Roosevelt, here in 1916, was a social event of the year, has secured a divorce on the grounds of desertion, according to reports received here today from Paris.

When a divorce, Mrs. Robinson was named as a classic dancer. She secured a separation as the premiere dancer of the Blue Bird ball at the Casino de Monte-Carlo given under the direction of Mrs. William J. Vanderbilt, Jr. in December, 1914. She was one of the first women in Boston to fly, taking a flight with Jacques White.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Robinson had active part in society in New York and New Jersey. She had been named as a charity worker, giving force of her line as a dancer. Mrs. Robinson was graduated from the University in 1915 and is a member of the American Society of the Sacred Theology Douglas Robinson. He is the son of Mrs. Cornelia Douglas Robinson, a sister of the late Thomas Robinson.

Under a separation secured by Mrs. Robinson in Paris in July of this year she was also given a property settlement.

Greeks Must Pay Bulgars, Says League

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 14 (A.P.)—Greece violated the Bulgarian frontier in the recent incident between the two nations, and must pay reparations of about $250,000, the League of Nations Council today decided in adopting a resolution by Mr. Austen Chamberlain of Great Britain, M. H. de Man of Belgium and Viscount Ishii of Japan.

The report maintains "that, where territory is violated without sufficient cause, reparation is due, even if at the time of the occurrence it was believed by the party committing the violation circumstances justified the action."

LIFE OF JUNGLE SHOWN IN DETAIL

Wild animals, from the king of the African jungle, down to the huge but harmless and defenseless three-toed sloth of the Amazon, will be brought to the stage of Symphony Hall Friday evening and shown to the public for the first time in every phase of their natural daily life in a remarkable group of close range jungle scenes. These pictures represent years of almost unbelievable patience and performance of a task for a long time believed to be impossible. It was not until the invention of a motion picture camera that these pictures became possible. Construction of a hide and shelter and endless waiting and waiting, sometimes for weeks, was necessitated. Two years in the jungle were required before the groups were complete.

Elephants, lions, leopards and even the timid jaguar are shown, just as they live. Herds of elephants, the mothers playing with their little ones, baboons living in family groups that were almost human, birds which travel on the backs of the rhinoceros and industriously pick off the field ticks which are the greatest plague among African animals. In order to make this the most complete series of wild animals and savage pictures ever shown, Mr. Newman has included all wild beasts of all ages, customs, moods, habits, and habits of the Brazilian jungle covering a journey along the Amazon River. A Saturday matinee will also be given at Symphony Hall.

"I believe that this is the first time that a complete collection of wild animal pictures has ever been brought to the United States showing the animals as they live."

Wreck Blocks Line
Flooded at 11, Two 14 A.P.—The derailment of a freight car two miles south of here delayed for six hours the Montreal-Boston night express, due at Boston at 7:30 a. m., and made the Boston to Woodville paper train three hours.

TAXPAYERS IN SCRAMBLE TO EVADE INTEREST BOOST

Hundreds of persons jammed the office of City Collector William M. McMorris in City Hall today after New York City interest charge is claimed on all unpaid bills. Extra cashiers and clerks were brought in to service. There were $12,500,000 in real and personal taxes remaining unpaid mostly by small property owners. The bill exceeding $200 each the 4 per cent interest rate will jump to 8 per cent, to increase immediately, effective September 15. The reason for the drive at this time is that the fiscal year ends December 31, one month earlier than in previous years.

HINTS FOR THE CHURCH SUPPER

From Tarnmouth, way down on the Cape, to North Adams, we re-quest for assistance in preparing food in large quantities for church suppers, so I have made up the following table that I hope will be helpful.

For boiled coffee for coffee made in an urn, sufficient to serve 150 people, you will need 3 1/2 pounds of coffee, ground medium fine, and twenty-four quarts of water. For hot chocolate figure on one gallon of milk for 150 servings and one-half pound of cooking chocolate, grated.

One quart of unwhipped cream will make 50 sandwiches. Tablespoons of whipped cream. A one quart bottle of medium sized olives will contain from 150 to 200 olives. A half-inch sandwich bread will make from 24 to 40 sandwiches, or one-half that number of sandwiches.

For chicken salad, a 4-pound fowl combined with celery will make 3 quarts of salad and will serve 12 people; 51 pounds of chicken will make 24 1/2 quarts of salad and will serve 120 people. For chicken of turkey, to serve hot, allow 20 pounds of the raw poultry for 150 people. For serving hot meat, allow for 150 people, 40 pounds of roast beef, well or pork, 45 to 50 pounds of lamb, 43 pounds of lamb or pork chops, 23 pounds of baked ham. To serve cold meat for 150 people, allow 20 to 40 pounds of beef, and 14 1/2 pounds of ham.

Why not let me help you with "different" church supper menus? I will be glad to. Let me know how many you have to serve and about what you want to spend per plate. I have many suggestions for "different" menus and food combinations.

SHINING UP THE CHRISTMAS WINDOWS

Hand in hand with the Christmas shopping, inevitably goes a certain amount of holiday house-cleaning so that every nook and corner may be open to the inspection of the dear in-laws.

Our windows are usually included in this general brightening up and we certainly want to use the quickest methods these chilly days.

Patented alcohol is excellent for cleaning glass because it evaporates so rapidly and leaves a brilliant shine. It is good for washing mirrors, too, but be sure you use a glass cloth. Don't use it on any of the many lovely ivory or shell imitations, because it is likely to stain them. Of course alcohol may seem a bit expensive to you to use for window washing, but while it is best used undiluted, you can add a little to your washing water the same as you can ammonia.

Clean, warm water is really all that is necessary to wash windows ordinarily dirty, but for kitchen windows where there is likely to be grease, a few drops of ammonia in the washing water will help clean. A little kerosene in the washing water is good, too, and gives a brilliant polish, but many people object to its odor on their hands.

If you are fortunate enough to have two big pieces of ammonia, they are the best things in the world for washing windows. Writing one piece tightly out of warm water and polish with the other.

Question and Answer Day

Every mail I think brings a new recipe for mince-meat, of all kinds and varieties, dried and pickled, meat and meatless, tomato and tomatoless. A really hot cake of which recipe appeals most to me.

First, for Mrs. R. W. O., of Norfolk town, I have a good Standard Mince-meat.

RECIPE NO. 1535—STANDARD MINCEMEAT

5 cups lean boiled beef, chopped
2 1/2 cups chopped meat
7 1/2 cups hot water, chopped
1 lb. butter
3 cups cider
Juice of 2 lemons
Juice of 2 oranges
1 tablespoon ground mace
3 tablespoons cinnamon
2 tablespoons cloves
2 tablespoons allspice

Stirmer this mixture slowly one and one-half hours, then add the grated rind from one orange and one lemon and seal in hot sterilized jars.

For Mrs. P. W. C., of Wakefield, I have a Meatless Mince-meat.

RECIPE NO. 1535—MEATLESS MINCEMEAT

Chop 1 lb. of suet fine. Also chop one pound of seedless raisins, one lb. currants, and 1/2 lb. each of candied citron, lemon, and orange peel. Pare and chop one quart of sour apples. Mix one pound of brown sugar with one tablespoon each of cloves, cinnamon, ginger and nutmeg. Blend all the ingredients carefully. You can use this without cooking at once or process 1 1/2 hours as you would vegetable.

Mrs. S. C. asks if I approve of the concentrated mince-meat (the mince-meat in a certain brand). I wonder, Mrs. C. if you know that this same brand also comes in a can, all ready to use, which saves the cooking and the addition of apples. This famous mince-meat is really excellent in its own right and is made from the finest ingredients: raisins, apples, sugar, spices, orange and lemon peel, beef, and so forth, cooked in a specially clean kitchen and packed in a sanitary can. All you have to do to make a luscious mince pie is to mix the mince pie to your choice and bake.

Mrs. P. C. B., of Brockton, asks for a recipe for hot water pie crust, which I am glad to give.

RECIPE NO. 1536—HOT WATER PIE CRUST

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking powder

Sift dry ingredients, add boiling water to shakiness, and beat until it is creamy and fluffy. Add dry ingredients, beating lightly with knife blade or spoon. When in a ball of paste which has cleared the sides of the bowl, roll on a lightly floured board and roll out as desired.

Mrs. T. O. W., of Brighton, asks for an especially rich mince-meat and I am going to give her a recipe 150 years old. The original recipe called for a 1/2 lb. of suet and a pint of the best brandy, which makes it necessary to cook the mince-meat but today we can substitute 3 cups of cider and simmer for 1 1/2 hours before packing in a crock or jar.

RECIPE NO. 1537—OLD-FASHIONED MINCEMEAT

Roll two pounds of lean beef, and when cold chop fine. Mince a pound of beef suet in a powder. Peel and chop 3 lbs. of apples. Seed and halve 2 lbs. of raisins. Wash and pick over carefully 2 lbs. of cleaned currants and 1 lb. of cleaned raisins. Cut into fine bits 1/2 lb. of citron. Mix these ingredients, adding as you do 2 tablespoons each of cinnamon and mace, a tablespoon each of cloves and allspice, a teaspoonful of ground nutmeg, a tablespoonful of salt and 3/4 lb. of brown sugar. When all is well mixed stir in 3 pints of cider. Let simmer for 1 1/2 hours, then pack down in a stone crock or jar.

And last of all, a medium-sized mince pie filling for Mrs. A. C. R., of Randolph.

RECIPE NO. 1538—MINCE PIE FILLING

1 lb. seeded raisins
1 lb. currants
1 lb. finely chopped beef suet
1/2 cup boiling water
1 level tablespoon salt
1 lb. candied orange peel and citron chopped fine

Prepare the fruits by seedling the raisins, washing and drying both these and the currants; add the suet very finely chopped. Run the suet through a meat chopper or chop it with a knife and mix all together with sugar, spices, grated lemon rind, apple, salt and cider. Keep at least 4 weeks before using, stirring occasionally. This quantity will make about 6 good-sized pies, and will keep all winter.

NEW POLISH TAKES PLACE OF SEVERAL

Until recently I think most housekeepers used one polish for silverware, one for porcelain and still another for such metals as brass and copper. There was always the inevitable row of various sized cans, boxes or bottles on our kitchen shelves, some of which added very materially to the general appearance of the kitchen.

Aside from the general nuisance of having so many cans and boxes lying around, each was the difficulty of keeping the various articles always replenished. After much experimenting, a modern chemical manufacturer has compounded a formula from which is being produced a single polish, equally effective on any kind of metal from brass to the finest silver and for porcelain, enamel and anything, in fact, that requires the use of a polish. The price is 25c a can.

I know that almost all our club members are anxious to have everything sparkling and span for use coming in the new year. This polish will save three-fold use of the old polishes, saving labor and space. It is guaranteed by the manufacturer to be absolutely effective whether it is used on silver, gold or metal or on such articles as porcelain, enamel and glass.

Do try it and then tell me if you like it.

A CHRISTMAS MENU

As I was looking over one of the numerous new recipe books which the "Mistral Macaroni Company" publish and of which they have sent me a generous supply for my readers, I noticed a menu for a Christmas dinner that was a little out of the ordinary.

It started with elbow macaroni soup which is made with elbow macaroni, soup meat, a real home-made stock, and is especially delicious. The menu continues through cold roast, salted potatoes and fillet of halibut, to roast turkey garnished with mushrooms and watercress, apple sauce and Mueller's spaghetti souffle. This is such an unusual recipe and so delicious that I am going to give it to you.

1 pie Mueller's spaghetti (par boiled) 1 minute
3 eggs
1 then, chopped parsley
1 onion grated
1 tsp. salt
1/4 cup pepper
2 1/2 cups thick white sauce

Melt a bit tablespoon of butter and a small onion, sauté for 2 minutes together and slowly 1 cup of hot milk, cook until smooth. Add salt, pepper, parmesan and grated onion. Then add the beaten egg yolks and spaghetti. When ready to stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a buttered dish, bake in hot oven 15 minutes and serve at once with mushroom or tomato sauce.

Finishing out the menu, next come scalloped oysters, cranberry sauce, plum pudding, stuffed dates, candy and coffee.

Would you like to have me send you your copy of this valuable little book of recipes, menus and cooking suggestions? It is attractively illustrated in colors and I have found the recipes reliable and of excellent variety. Just drop me a line if you would like a copy.

IN a short while, three heralds, each with a silver trumpet, marched to the center of the field. They blew a long clear note, and then retired. After introducing all the players of the two teams all around, the game was on.

For the first time, Rip took a look at the field. Instead of being marked off in white stripes as a football field, Rip observed two geometric figures laid out in the following manner:

World Court No Preventer of War

Everyone knows that a court is a place where judges make decisions supposed to deal out justice.

If either contending party refuses to accept the decision, he is forced to accept it by an officer of the law.

The World Court of the League of Nations is no exception. Its advocates intend that eventually its decrees shall be enforced upon the nations not accepting those decrees.

Force used against a nation is the name for war.

That is why many sincere Americans want to stay out of the World Court, because it would take us into the League of Nations, and call upon us to go to war in enforcing the league's mandates.

So far the league seems to have been successful in holding small nations in check, such as Greece and Bulgaria. It has not checked the big nations from aggression to enforce their wills. It did not stop Italy's bombardment of Corfu, nor France's calamitous seizure of the Ruhr.

Probably if the league tried to control one of the great European nations it would precipitate a war bigger than the war it was trying to stop.

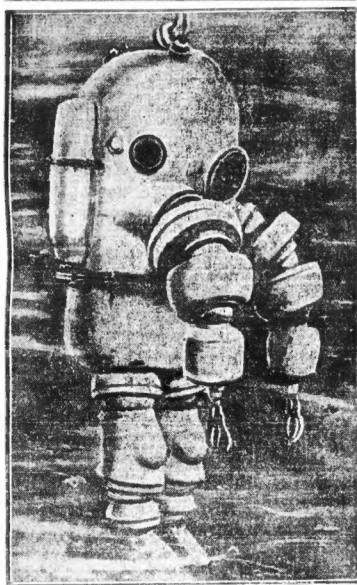

Most of us feel that the United States is not going to give any nation cause for war against us. We never have yet.

If we want to help prevent wars between other nations many sincere Americans think there is a better way to do it than by joining the World Court of the League of Nations. They think we can be of more help as an outside disinterested umpire or arbitrator than we could be if we were a party in the dispute.

We can always join in any war we choose. God knows either side will always want us.

The Strangest Fish

It is a German Diver, in the Deepest of Deep Sea Diving Suits

What do the poor fish think of THIS person?

In the Aquarium you have seen many strange fish, big-eyed, little-eyed, flat, long, thin, stupid or fierce. You never saw a queerer fish than THIS one.

This is the latest, most highly developed diving suit in the world. A German firm made it. A British warship, in old haste, brought it with German experts to England to investigate the lost, sunken submarine boat M.1, supposed to be lying 230 feet below the surface.

With one of these diving suits, far ahead scientifically of all other diving devices, a man can move about and do his work FIVE HUNDRED FEET below the surface of the water.

The weight is excessive, but as you know by lifting your arm out of the bathtub water, bodies immersed in water are much lighter.

The inside of the diving suit looks like a regular factory, tanks containing compressed oxygen to keep the diver alive, special pads for absorbing the carbon poison that the breath carries out from the lungs, carrying the impurities of the blood with it. There are searchlights for lighting the ocean's depths.

The diver takes a whole little "surface world" down with him.

The Germans are a highly scientific people. None surpass them in chemistry, in manufacturing. The pity is that they allowed their nation to be set back one hundred years by having a dull-minded Kaiser in charge of their destiny, instead of ruling themselves. They won't make THAT mistake again.

By the way, when the fish see this thing under the water, you can imagine how they misjudge us human beings. They put us down as the most monstrously ugly, awkward, ungainly creatures ever produced by nature.

And even at that, they do not misjudge us more thoroughly than we sometimes misjudge each other up here on the surface.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

BOOTLEGGERS have already played their tricks for the holidays. They're doing their Christmas stocking early.

BOOZE is going fast. Bootleggers are now selling two weeks in advance.

WITCHKET is coming in bottles with handles. When you take one drink you need something to hold on to.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

CLAIR isn't going to be bunked by any of these Charly Asps this Christmas. She has a lesson last year.

Last year Clair decided to make it a Real Christmas. Instead of spending all her money on people who had enough, anyway, she was going to help the Truly Needy. So she looked out the Higgins family.

She looked her dad, and pestered her friends, told the money she was saving for the new rosewood cigarette and she accumulated more cash than the Higgins had seen in many years. Then she bought groceries and a new stove, a wash tub and a high chair for the baby. The remaining $45 she gave to Mrs. Higgins in a pretty envelope with a happy speech.

After she'd gone the Higginses called all the neighbors and showed them all the wonderful new things. They then decided to have a party. They had never had a party.

But before they could have the party, they'd have to do up a little. So Mrs. Higgins in twenty-four went out and bought that second-hand sofa and began hankering for acid and ever so long. It cost $12.75. And Phyllis in twenty-five blew himself to a silk shirt.

They left a sum quite enough, with what they had in the house, for a Real Christmas Party. They certainly did enjoy themselves. It made Mrs. Higgins feel great.

But Clair didn't feel great when she heard about it. Clair felt mad. That's the way Charly is apt to feel when he's got a party to attend.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By Helen Rowland

Oh, how, how, in the poppy-head, how now approacheth the season of good-will and brotherly love, when the human heart melteth and overfloweth with benevolence and altruism and charity.

When the land- and sea- and air- and sweet day- for next month- raise the stars- all the- when the ship-keeper- bath- "Bring forth all the- seconds and the junk from last year- Let us sing them while the stringing is good- for January brings the sorrow and bargain sale."

When the butcher saith, "Let the price of turkeys and game go heavy-ward; for we have them at our mercy, and they must have them!"

When the small boy saith, "Now shall I lie in wait for that old bird, Santa, and hold him up for that automobile, but he'll break me with a kid's car!"

When the cook saith, "Let them dig deep—or now shall I strike, while the turkey smother roasteth?"

When the family man saith, "Him! Him! This, too, shall pass away! Will! This, too, shall pass away! Will! This, too, shall pass away!"

Three Minute Journeys

By TEMPLE MANNING

INDIA would not be the country it is today were it not for her most faithful workers—the great lumbering, tremendously powerful elephants. They are used in every capacity. Wherever strength is necessary, you find the elephant at work.

The automobile and railroad are rapidly replacing the elephant as means of transportation, but as work they remain supreme. They work from dawn until dark with the exception of the four hours between rest and sleep. Working and resting in action during this time. They stop work promptly at 11, dropping instantly whatever they happen to be doing.

They show an intelligence that is almost human in the way they work.

They actually seem to figure out just what is the best way to go at a problem, and when to quit. It is the quickest and most effective way.

One of the chief mistakes in which the elephant is irremediable is the cutting down of trees in the Burmese forests. The logs are carried and dragged to the river to be floated down the river, solely by elephants.

They work in rows, perhaps six or eight in each crew. There are always men with tasks, and these are the carrying.

To yesterday, the elephant is merely an integral part of every circus and zoo. But to the Indian, it is a friend at all times.

"IT'S GOOD ENOUGH LET IT GO!"

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WHEN someone doing a piece of work says, "Let it go; that's good enough!" it is generally a pretty good sign that it is not good enough.

If it were no one would need convincing.

I think it was Ed Howe who said that most new things are largely old things done better by painstaking men.

"Painstaking men" is a classification that fits most of those who have done big things and made great discoveries.

Taking pains is a fairly good definition of that Smith of human efficiency called "genius." Probably the most prevalent weakness of the human animal is a lack of persistence, of seeing a job through to the end; of sticking at a piece of work until it is well done.

In the struggle for advancement in the world two men oftentimes have the same natural ability and fight along neck and neck for a time. The one who pulls ahead on the final homestretch under such conditions is almost always the one who has trained himself to take pains.

A slovenly carelessness is the dragon everyone has to slay.

The Toledo Blade years ago printed this riddle for its readers:

"What am I?"

"I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world."

"I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the nations. I steal in the United States alone hundreds of millions of dollars each year."

"I spare no one, and I find my victims among the rich and the poor alike, the young and the old, the strong and the weak. I loom up in such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of the grindstone to the moving of every railroad train."

"I lurk in unseen places and do most of my work silently."

"You are warned against me, but you heed not."

"I am everywhere—in the house, on the street, in the factory, at railroad crossings and on the sea. I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to evade me."

"I give nothing, and take all. I am your worst enemy."

"I am not drink, hatred, or selfishness. What am I?"

The answer to the riddle was:

"I am carelessness."

THE EARTH'S GREAT AIR LENS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

QUOTING the statement in one of these articles that "the sun is so much larger than the earth that its rays fall parallel on the globe from pole to pole," a reader suggests that the refraction of the atmosphere converges the rays of light toward the center of the earth, so that they do not fall strictly parallel on the earth's surface.

This kind of reasoning about the great phenomena of nature is instructive, even when it leads to erroneous conclusions. The reason is in the nature of the refraction of light.

It would be a great sight to stand upon the totally eclipsed moon when the earth's atmosphere is the stage of the solar globe.

The atmosphere is a mass of air, probably not a hundred miles in effective thickness, surrounding the globe some miles in diameter, its refractive index—i. e., the amount by which it bends the rays of light—is small, the deviation produced being less than three-quarters of a degree at the most, and that only at the horizon. Overhead it is zero.

Nevertheless, the atmosphere as a whole acts like a lens, converging the rays of light toward the center of the earth, so that they do not fall strictly parallel on the earth's surface.

Now, the atmosphere as a whole acts like a lens, converging the rays of light toward the center of the earth, so that they do not fall strictly parallel on the earth's surface.

It is the cause of the copper-hued glow that the totally eclipsed moon generally presents. The rays of light from the sun are refracted by the atmosphere, and the colors are red, viz., because the colors of shorter wave-lengths are most absorbed in passing through the atmosphere near the horizon.

Every astronomer must hope that Professor Goddard's moon-visiting rocket may some time become a reality. For the imagination can hardly conceive the beauty and the strangeness of the lunar world, because of the airlessness, would afford. Merely to see, actually, the earth suspended in space 210,000 miles from the spectator's eye would be a scene in visual imagination exceeding all the wonders of the movie screen.

How do you eat when you go into a restaurant? You are by yourself and you want a quick meal and you think few, if any, know your table manner.

Isn't that a true picture of your downtown quick meal luncheon? More might be added such as shoveling food into your mouth and before it is thoroughly masticated swallowing it down with liquid.

You look lovely, even angrier, at those on the right and the left. You eat because you must, without any particular pleasure. Speed being your object, you eat with your fork and knife as comfortably during the afternoon as you look while you eat the food.

You punch those beside you with your elbows and cast them in audacious glances in your way.

You leave the place with dissatisfaction written on your face. It is not everything that you have indignation so much, for most of the managers, as you display them, indicate the sure route to stomach disorders.
